Hello Ynab,

I am Arun Jacob, UX/Product Designer, from India. I saw the job description and it seems I can be the Humbly Confident UI/UX Designer you are looking for. At present, I am working as Experience Designer at Adobe.

I went through the requirements and I have the experience you are looking for in product design, I have worked closely with the product teams at software companies like Microsoft, Adobe etc and also been a part of designing complex and data-rich applications, like real-time oil drilling data management apps for Petrolink, and cockpit management manual for Boeing, Rebalancing application for Redblack etc.

I was looking to join a remote team, with cool people and culture, and I can see it from the About page. Previously I was working with Petrolink, at EST zone (mostly around 9 am - 4 pm est ) with my folks in Houston, and find it to be more productive and I can indulge in a more social and active life in the Daytime here. I love painting and have high hopes for me becoming a renowned Artist when I die :) and also learns music and plays Basketball every day. I like your Cultural Manifesto, seems like I can be part of a great team with YNAB.

I had the opportunity to work on various platforms like the web, mobile, desktop, Xbox etc. Throughout my career, I have learned a lot and never afraid to fail and to learn from the failures. I have experience working with lean and agile methodologies (yes, waterfalls are for rivers!) and adapt well in diverse circumstances.
